Grow Your Business Without Choking On It - There's a Formula for Success in Business

Whether you are starving for it or choking on it, growth is vital for a healthy business and limitless revenue.

"The first and most important threshold for the growth of your company is to stop seeing it as an extension of yourself and start seeing it as its own being, with its own needs, aspirations and destiny. It's when you set it free that it becomes your servant and not your master." — Roger Knecht

Learn:

- The power of the Universal Business Model to insure profits and how to properly M.A.P. your business.
- The 4 Keys to Success & Profit
- The 4 Ways to Motivate and Celebrate Your Employees
- How to Speak the Language of Business
- Scoring your business
- How Your Competition Compares to You.

Built to Sell: 8 Things That Drive Your Company Value

If you're like a lot of entrepreneurs, you use your Profit & Loss (P&L) statement as your report card at the end of the year. You may even use your P&L to figure out what your company is worth by applying a multiple to your profit. But having worked with more than 20,000 entrepreneurs using The Value Builder System™, we've seen examples of companies that fetch up to three times more than the average price for companies in their industry.

Whether you want to sell your business – or just know that you could – you'll learn the eight things that drive the value of your company and suggestions on how to dramatically increase the value of your business.
