The Business Improvement Process

Within business there are specific strategies and processes to turn a business around and insure profit. Every business has cycles and trends that it must deal with and following these principles empowers a business owner to be more in control when working to be profitable. Attend and leave with action items to help you weather the storms that may come in business.

Creating a Culture of Accountability

Within the business the employees are arguably the most important asset within the business. Creating a culture where they can excel and produce as expected is key to the success of every business. Using Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs, learn how to identify your employee's personal motivators.
